AI MADE SIMPLE · PART OF AI SUSTAINED · BY KEVIN CLUBB

PART 1

What we'll cover in your free session

Before anything else, we have a relaxed 30-minute chat online. It's free, with no pressure to book a thing. Here's how it goes:

Hello A friendly chat about your day. What you do, and the jobs you'd love to make quicker or easier.

The tools ChatGPT and Claude, explained simply. No jargon — just what they are, and why people find them so useful.

Live demo AI, working on your task. I'll take one real thing you do and show you AI doing it, there and then.

Next steps Where to from here. What a full session covers, and answers to any questions you have.

The goal isn't to sell you anything. It's for you to see, with your own eyes, what's genuinely possible — and to leave curious rather than confused.

PART 2

Getting set up — it's easy, I promise

Written for people who rarely use a computer. If any of it feels tricky, don't worry — just turn up and we'll do it together at the start of your free session.

What you'll need

A computer or laptop

A way to get online

An email address

About 15 quiet minutes

How to create your free account

- 1 Open the internet. Click the app you use to look at websites — often a blue letter 'e', a colourful circle, or a small compass.
- 2 Go to the website. Click the empty bar along the top, type chatgpt.com and press Enter. (Prefer to try Claude? Type claude.ai)
- 3 Start signing up. Look for a button that says 'Sign up' or 'Get started' and click it.
- 4 Enter your details. Type your email address and create a password. Write the password down somewhere safe.
- 5 Follow the steps on screen. When you see a box to type in, you're done. It's free.

You only need ONE account to start — either one is fine. I'll show you both in the session.

Bring one everyday task. Think of one thing you do most days — a type of email, pricing a job, tidying notes. Send it to me beforehand and I'll show you, live, how to do it faster. Rather not? No problem — I'll use a general example instead.

PART 3

Your first 90-minute session

One-to-one, on your real work, at your pace. This is where the real progress happens — here's the shape of it:

Before Get set up. Have your free account ready and a task or two in mind (see Part 2). Stuck? We sort it in the first few minutes.

0-10 min Settle in & goals. A quick recap of what you want to get out of it.

10-25 min The basics. How to "talk to" AI so it actually helps — a simple, repeatable way to ask.

25-55 min Your real task, live. We solve one of your actual tasks together — then you do it yourself.

55-75 min Something you keep. We set up a reusable shortcut — a saved project and prompts — built around your work.

75-85 min You drive. You run it unaided while I'm there to help.

85-90 min Your take-home plan. What to practise, and what "confident on your own" looks like.

You'll leave with one real win, a setup you own, and the ability to repeat it without me. A plain-English written summary follows every session.

10 prompts you can steal today

The simple recipe: tell it who you are, what you want, and the format you'd like it in. And never paste confidential or personal information into the free versions.

1 Explain it simply

"Explain [topic] to me like I'm smart but busy. Short sentences, no jargon."

For getting your head around something new, fast.

2 Draft the email

"Write a friendly, professional email to [who] about [what]. Under 120 words. Give me two versions."

The everyday time-saver — never start from a blank page again.

3 Tidy my writing

"Fix the spelling and grammar below. Keep my voice, don't change the meaning: [paste your text]"

Polish anything before you send it.

4 Summarise this

"Summarise the text below into 5 bullet points a busy person can read in 20 seconds: [paste]"

Turn long documents or threads into the gist.

5 Notes into actions

"Here are my messy meeting notes. Turn them into clear actions with owners and dates: [paste]"

Walk out of meetings with a tidy to-do list.

6 Get unstuck

"I'm trying to [goal]. Ask me 3 questions, then give me a simple step-by-step plan."

For when you don't know where to start.

7 Reply for me

"Here's a message I received. Draft a polite reply that [your aim]: [paste]"

Handle the awkward or fiddly replies in seconds.

8 Make it shorter

"Rewrite this to half the length, keeping the key points: [paste]"

Tighten up anything that's waffly.

9 Prepare me

"I've got a [meeting/call] about [topic]. Give me 5 smart questions to ask and 3 things to watch for."

Walk in ready and confident.

10 Learn as you go

"Act as a patient tutor. Teach me [thing] in small steps, and check I've understood before moving on."

Your own private, endlessly patient teacher.
